Sustainable investment labels help investors find products that have a specific sustainability goal. The Fund does not have a UK sustainable investment label because, whilst it considers sustainability factors, it does not have a specific sustainability objective.

Sustainability approach

The Sub-fund invests at least 70% in companies quoted on the World's major stock exchanges and which are not excluded from selection by ethical screening based on Christian principles.

Christian ethics are a first principle matter for Epworth. We aim to ensure that our investment decisions are consistent with the Christian faith. As such, all investments chosen by the fund must adhere to Epworth's established ethical pillars. To qualify for inclusion, each asset undergoes a meticulous due diligence process conducted by Epworth's experienced investment team and subsequently presented to the Asset Allocation Committee for evaluation. Continuous, rigorous monitoring of investments is conducted by the Epworth team. This involves regular interactions with the management of respective companies and third-party funds. The Responsible Investment Committee at Epworth is actively consulted in instances where specific stewardship concerns arise.

Stewardship and Engagement

The Investment Manager's primary means to exercise stewardship is through investee engagement. Good engagement involves actively collaborating with, and sometimes challenging, investee companies to influence and improve their environmental, social and governance behaviours. This engagement should result in tangible improvements of investee practices and contribute to the creation of long-term value to investors, investee companies and society as a whole.

Where investee companies fail to engage or don't engage adequately the Investment Manager has an escalation process that incudes escalating areas of concern to the senior management and board of the company, collaborating with likeminded investors to file shareholder resolutions, and public advocacy. If this escalation process fails to achieve the desired outcome the Investment Manager may reduce exposure or divest completely

Full details of the Investment Manager's engagement process are available on their website www.epworthim.com.

Sustainability metrics

The Investment Manager takes a qualitative approach to assessing a company. The analysis will vary depending on the jurisdiction or sector in which a company operates, therefore the Investment Manager does not employ any specific key performance indicators.

Exclusion Criteria

In addition to the sustainability approach described above the Investment Manager also uses a number of exclusion criteria within its investment process as listed below; this limits the revenue sources of the companies it might buy.
